

▶ Robert Eifel, Consultant

Rob has over 20 years in the banking industry working in commercial, real estate and agricultural lending and commercial credit analysis. He has held the positions of commercial lender, senior credit analyst and chief credit officer.

Rob has worked primarily for financial institutions throughout his career. He spent 20 years combined working for The National Bank & Trust (now First Midwest Bank) and Resource Bank.

Rob's responsibilities as chief credit officer included implementation and oversight of all credit policies, loan operations and loan servicing departments and managing a team of credit analysts.

Rob previously worked for several accounting firms specializing in loan review, due diligence and asset validation. He recommended best practice solutions related to initial underwriting, portfolio & problem loan management, credit administration, appraisal processes and regulatory compliance.

Rob has served as a subject matter expert for Risk Management Association's Credit Skills Certificate Series and as a guest lecturer at Northern Illinois University, Department of Finance.

Rob earned a B.S. in Finance from Northern Illinois University. He has completed numerous coursework through the Appraisal Institute and Risk Management Association.